Twenty-Eighth Legislative Assembly

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 23, 2019
(1ST DAY)

2:00 p.m.

The Speaker informed the Assembly that he had received a communication from the Private Secretary to His Honour the Lieutenant Governor stating that His Honour would open the session at 2:00 p.m. today, Wednesday, October 23, 2019.

2:04 p.m.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

His Honour the Lieutenant Governor opened the session with the following speech:

Mr. Speaker, Members of the Legislative Assembly, honoured guests, people of Saskatchewan, welcome to the opening of the fourth session of the twenty-eighth legislature of the province of Saskatchewan.

CONDOLENCES

I would like to begin today by offering my deepest sympathies and condolences to the family and friends of former Lieutenant Governor, the Honourable Thomas Molloy, who passed away on July 2nd. Please join me in a moment of silence in remembrance of the Honourable Thomas Molloy.

INTRODUCTION

Over the past 12 years, Saskatchewan has enjoyed a remarkable period of strong and sustained growth – growth our province has not seen since the 1920s. Ten weeks from today, Saskatchewan will enter the 2020s. My government's goal is to ensure Saskatchewan's strong growth continues, that all Saskatchewan people continue to benefit from that growth and that the 2020s will be a new decade of growth for our province.

Since 2007, Saskatchewan has grown by more than 160,000 people. Today, more than 1,170,000 residents call our province home. More of our young people have chosen to stay in Saskatchewan, and we have welcomed new residents from every other province and territory and from 170 different countries around the world. They have come here because of opportunity – opportunity created by a strong and growing economy. In June of this year, the number of people working in Saskatchewan hit an all-time high of nearly 593,000 – up 83,000 new jobs since 2007.

NEW GROWTH PLAN

During this session, my government will release a new Saskatchewan growth plan to ensure this strong growth continues through the new decade. The new growth plan will set specific targets and provide a roadmap of how Saskatchewan will achieve those targets. Those targets will include:

- 1.4 million people living in Saskatchewan by 2030; and
- 100,000 more people working in Saskatchewan by 2030.

A strong and growing economy means a strong and growing province, which in turn enables my government to invest in important government services that provide a better quality of life for all Saskatchewan people. This virtuous circle of growth has replaced the vicious cycle of decline that hindered our great province for so many years. That's why my government is committed to a new growth plan and to ensuring the 2020s are a new decade of growth.

EXPORT GROWTH

My government's plan for growth will include an aggressive focus on growing our exports by finding new markets and expanding existing markets for what we produce. Saskatchewan exports two-thirds of what it produces to over 150 countries around the world. This makes our province the largest per capita exporter in Canada.

Over 100,000 Saskatchewan jobs rely directly or indirectly on exports. Expanding our exports will be a key pillar of our growth plan. At the same time, growing international protectionism poses a significant challenge. Saskatchewan must meet this challenge head on and seize every opportunity to communicate the benefits of Saskatchewan products to our trading partners around the globe.

Much of Saskatchewan's export growth will be driven by our strong agriculture and resource sectors and the thousands of Saskatchewan people working in those industries. Increasing crop production and growing the percentage of primary agricultural production that is processed in our province will be part of our plan moving forward. Growth in the value of exports requires more value-added production. To ensure our province reaps the full benefit of our agricultural resources, my government will outline measures to increase agricultural value-added exports to $10 billion by 2030.

RESOURCES

Mining is an important part of Saskatchewan's economic success. In addition to maintaining a competitive environment for mining in our province, my government will encourage new mineral exploration to support the discovery of emerging and undeveloped commodities, such as base and precious metals.

The targeted mineral exploration incentive is leading to increased activity in our province and creating significant opportunities for future mining investment, particularly for junior companies which often face challenges raising necessary investment capital to fund exploration projects. As a result of this incentive, 110 new exploratory drilling operations for both base and precious metals and minerals are currently underway.

Strong export growth requires a strong oil and gas industry. Saskatchewan's new growth plan will take action to ensure the competitiveness and strength of an industry that supports more than 30,000 families in Saskatchewan.

Saskatchewan has some of the best and most cost-effective conventional oil and gas opportunities in the world, with a stable and competitive royalty structure. My government remains committed to supporting the growth, diversification, and innovation of the energy and resources sector through targeted incentives. The oil and gas processing investment incentive supports infrastructure upgrades for companies, as well as value-added processing and improved emissions management.

The Saskatchewan petroleum innovation incentive, based around research and development, also provides transferrable royalty/freehold tax credits for qualified innovation and commercialization projects. Saskatchewan uranium provides clean, safe, and reliable power all around the world. About one in 10 homes in Canada, nearly one in 20 in the United States, and millions more in other countries receive electricity produced from Saskatchewan uranium.

Despite challenges stemming from low uranium prices, Saskatchewan sees opportunity in new discoveries and uranium projects. Last month, ALX Uranium announced the commencement of a drilling program at Close Lake in the Athabasca Basin. NexGen also announced its maiden drilling program in the same region. These are just a few examples of new prospects that will position Saskatchewan to be a leader in supplying uranium to global markets. At the same time, SaskPower will continue to explore the potential for small modular reactors using Saskatchewan uranium to produce safe, emissions-free electricity here in our province.

REDUCING EMISSIONS

Saskatchewan's energy and resource sector has remained strong in spite of lower oil prices, lack of new pipelines and challenges from our own federal government like a costly and ineffective carbon tax. Saskatchewan's court challenge to this intrusion on provincial responsibilities will continue in the Supreme Court of Canada, supported by the provinces of Ontario, Alberta, Manitoba, New Brunswick, and Quebec. While my government continues to oppose this tax grab poorly disguised as environmental policy, it also continues to take real action to reduce greenhouse gas emissions through the implementation of the Prairie Resilience climate change strategy. This plan includes commitments to reduce annual emissions from electrical generation, decrease methane emissions from upstream oil and gas production, and implement output-based performance standards for large emitters.

The federal government's decision to accelerate the phase-out of conventional coal-fired electricity by 2030 will negatively affect over 1,300 workers in Saskatchewan coal-producing communities. My government will assist the communities of Estevan and Coronach and surrounding areas to transition to new economic development opportunities with the creation of a fund of up to $10 million that will be directed by the impacted communities.

Last session, my government produced the first progress report on climate resilience in order to provide a picture of how the province is strengthening its ability to adapt and thrive in a changing climate. To support this work, my government launched consultations on the development of the carbon offset framework for the province. These measures are in addition to significant measures already underway.

Our agriculture industry has annually sequestered nearly 12 million tonnes of carbon in recent years and during this session, the carbon capture and storage unit at Boundary Dam 3 will remove its three millionth tonne of carbon dioxide from the atmosphere.

The ground has been broken on a new 200 megawatt wind farm near Assiniboia, nearly quadrupling our wind capacity since 2007, and SaskPower has been accepting applications to fulfill 35 megawatts of renewable and carbon neutral non-renewable self-generation in its power generation partner program. DEEP Earth Energy Production Corporation (DEEP) announced the successful drilling of a preliminary well for its geo-thermal power facility. My government announced that it was investing $175,000 in the project through Innovation Saskatchewan. SaskPower and DEEP have signed a power purchase agreement that will allow further research into the potential for Canada's first geothermal power project.

My government also signed the first agreement in Canadian history between a provincial government and a First Nation to provide provincial support in environmental regulation to an entire reserve at Whitecap Dakota First Nation. One of the ways my government is directly supporting the Prairie Resilience plan is through a pilot project using technology to monitor and measure electrical consumption at the Cooper Place building in Regina.

Since January 2018, this effort has resulted in a 30 per cent savings and a reduction of more than 500 tonnes of carbon emissions per year. Based on this success, this type of green monitoring has been expanded to 11 additional government buildings, including this Legislative Building and the four others commonly referred to as the legislative loop:

- The Walter Scott building;
- The T.C. Douglas building;
- The Powerhouse; and
- Lloyd Place.

Saskatchewan's Prairie Resilience plan will accomplish the goal of adapting and thriving in a changing climate, resulting in real emission reductions, and ensuring our industries remain competitive without the harm to our economy caused by the costly and ineffective federal carbon tax.

PROTECTING OUR ENVIRONMENT

My government has also filed a statement of claim against the federal government for restoration of equal, cost-shared funding toward the remediation of the Gunnar mine in northern Saskatchewan, as was originally agreed to in 2006. My government takes seriously its responsibility to environmentally restore this area and protect northern Indigenous communities and expects the federal government to live up to its responsibility for environmental protection in northern Saskatchewan. During this session, the Ministry of Environment and the Saskatchewan Environmental Code advisory committee will seek public input on three code chapters regarding hydrostatic testing amendments, wildland urban interface, and forest inventory.

TECHNOLOGY SECTOR

A growing economy in the 2020s will require a rapidly advancing technology sector. The Saskatchewan technology startup incentive is the most aggressive angel investment tax credit for startups in western Canada. This incentive is creating new jobs in Saskatchewan, attracting private investments and increasing the number of start-up technology companies in our province. With the support of my government through Innovation Saskatchewan, Co. Labs technology incubator has helped 72 companies receive programming support and mentorship, resulting in more than $6.85 million in private investment for those companies.

THE BENEFITS OF GROWTH

Saskatchewan's first growth plan released in 2012 stated that my government does not seek growth simply for the sake of growth. The purpose of growth is to secure a better quality of life for all Saskatchewan people. Not only does a growing economy mean more jobs and opportunities, it also means government has the resources to improve important government services for Saskatchewan residents.

Over the past 12 years, this has meant:

- More hospitals, doctors, and nurses;
- Shorter surgical wait times;
- More schools, teachers, and funding for education;
- Lower personal income taxes and Saskatchewan people keeping more of the money they earn;
- Safer highways;
- More police officers;
- More long-term care beds and tripling the seniors' income plan benefit;

- More child care spaces;
- More funding for post-secondary education;
- Doubling of funding to municipalities; and
- 70,000 students benefitting from the graduate retention program after graduation by staying in Saskatchewan.

There was a time in this province when every one of these government services was moving in the wrong direction. Not anymore. My government's new growth plan will ensure Saskatchewan people continue to enjoy the benefits of a strong and growing economy.

HEALTH

One of the most important benefits of growth is a high quality health care system. Since 2007, my government has shown a strong commitment to health care. Health care funding has more than doubled. There are about 3,800 more nurses and nearly 900 more doctors practicing across the province since 2007, thanks to my government's significant emphasis on recruiting and retaining medical professionals. Hospitals and other health care facilities are also critical in delivering these services.

Since 2007, over $1.6 billion has been invested into health care infrastructure. These funds have allowed my government to open five new or replacement hospitals and 13 long term care centres, and fund 20 additional major capital projects. Earlier this year, my government announced that the Weyburn hospital replacement project and the Prince Albert Victoria Hospital redevelopment project will be entering their final planning stages.

In March, my government delivered on its commitment to mental health with the opening of the 284-bed Saskatchewan Hospital North Battleford. And as of just last month, for the first time, Saskatchewan has its own children's hospital – the new Jim Pattison Children's Hospital in Saskatoon.

Along with the commitment to that new facility came an investment in the health care professionals who will work there, including 72 physicians in more than 20 specialties. Most importantly, many more children will now receive the care they need right here at home in Saskatchewan, without having to travel out of province with their families.

My government continues its commitment to mental health and addictions services, including a record investment of $402 million this year, an 80 per cent increase since 2007. These investments have provided Saskatchewan families better access to the supports they need, increased the number of mental health and addictions beds, reduced wait times for child and youth psychiatry, and added more front-line health care workers to the system.

Through partnerships with our community based organizations (CBOs), my government has also worked to ensure that these services are available closer to home. Increased support has enabled CBOs such as Family Service Saskatchewan to offer walk-in mental health services to 18 different communities and the Canadian Mental Health Association to expand its Roots of Hope Suicide Prevention program to three northern communities.

Organ donations save lives. My government is working to improve organ donor rates through the creation of an organ donor registry, where Saskatchewan residents can register their intentions to be an organ donor. This registry will help ensure that families and loved ones are aware of an individual's donation intentions.

My government was pleased to renew its 10-year funding agreement with the Shock Trauma Air Rescue Service (STARS). Since STARS began operating in Saskatchewan in 2012, it has transported over 4,500 individuals in need of medical attention. The unveiling of the newest helicopter in the Saskatchewan STARS fleet will ensure the dedicated health care providers who work for STARS will continue to save lives across the province.

My government is committed to better meeting the health needs of a growing seniors' population by connecting seniors to the care they need and by strengthening support for individuals with dementia and Alzheimer's disease. New community health centres were recently opened in Regina and Saskatoon. One is at market mall in Saskatoon, in a neighbourhood with a large proportion of seniors.

Recently, my government launched MySaskHealthRecord, a secure, privacy-protected website that will give Saskatchewan residents age 18 and over quick and easy access to their personal health information, including lab results, clinical visit history, prescription history, and immunization history. During this session, my government will introduce and fund a plan to reduce surgical wait times.

EDUCATION

Last month, 191,000 pre-kindergarten to grade 12 students started their school year in 770 schools throughout Saskatchewan. That's an increase of over 27,000 students, or nearly 17 per cent, from 12 years ago. While the growth in the number of students has been significant, my government's commitment to education has grown even more. Over the same period, operating funding to schools has increased by 34 per cent, while investment in school capital is nearly five times higher. This includes 46 new schools and 23 major renovation projects in schools throughout the province, a far cry from when enrolment numbers were declining and schools were being closed at a rate of one every month.

My government has placed a high priority on ensuring students with intensive needs get the support they need in our schools. Since 2007, the number of students with intensive needs has increased by about 38 per cent, from 6,700 to 9,300 students. During that same period, funding for intensive needs supports has more than quadrupled, from $64 million to $285 million per year.

My government recently released the results of an online survey which was completed by 9,000 students, parents, teachers, and other Saskatchewan residents. The survey is part of a major consultation process that will form priorities for the education system over the next decade, ensuring students continue to receive the best possible education in Saskatchewan schools. A growing province needs a well-educated workforce. That's why post-secondary education will also continue to be a priority for my government, and that's why operating funding to Saskatchewan's post-secondary institutions has increased by more than 50 per cent since 2007.

This year, nearly 80,000 students are enrolled in Saskatchewan's universities and technical colleges. They will receive education and training that is well suited to Saskatchewan's growing economy. Nine out of 10 post-secondary graduates are now choosing to stay and work in Saskatchewan after graduation. This year, my government has invested $45 million to support post-secondary programs and skills training employment initiatives. This includes over $9.5 million to the Saskatchewan Indian Institute of Technologies, which has seen its funding more than double since 2007.

A HAND UP TO THOSE IN NEED

A strong and growing province gives everyone the opportunity to succeed while at the same time protecting its most vulnerable. This summer, my government launched a new Saskatchewan income support (SIS) program for all new income assistance clients. SIS will help our clients achieve independence through a simplified and increased earned income exemption that will keep more money in their pockets.

This past spring, my government signed three new agreements and created a stronger relationship with the Saskatoon Tribal Council – a relationship that is focused on making life better for Indigenous children and youth in care and their families. The Children and Families Reconciliation Partnership agreement will focus on the safety and well-being of First Nations children and youth. A new delegation agreement will re-establish the Saskatoon Tribal Council First Nations Child and Family Services Agency and join the 17 First Nations agencies that deliver services on reserve to First Nations communities around the province.

The first contact panel protocol will help reduce the number of children coming into care and reduce the amount of time a child is in care. Earlier this year, my government successfully finished transitioning over 150 people from the Valley View Centre into suitable communities of their choice. This process has involved working with residents and their families to develop a person-centered planning approach that included family, residents and their Valley View family.

These residents will be able to enjoy more accessible communities as this fall, my government will continue to implement the disability strategy by consulting on a new accessibility act. My government has significantly increased funding for the transit assistance for people with disabilities program, including a 45 per cent increase this year that will partially fund up to 15 new paratransit vehicles in the province.

PUBLIC SAFETY

A strong and growing province keeps all of its citizens safe. While Saskatchewan's crime rate has fallen since 2007, my government recognizes that there are areas of the province where crime remains a serious concern and there is still much more to be done. The need to provide enhanced visibility in rural areas was clearly heard during the consultations conducted by the caucus committee on crime. With the increase in the number of RCMP officers and the launch of the protection and response team, there are now over 300 more frontline officers providing service in rural areas of the province, an increase of 40 per cent since 2011. Other important initiatives, such as Saskatchewan crime watch, will continue to be supported by our government.

Our government also continues to support frontline municipal police services. Important, specialized units such as the internet child exploitation units, police and crisis teams, and units designed to target drug and gang activity play important roles in communities across Saskatchewan. Since 2007, my government has provided municipalities over $150 million in municipal police grants, including $15 million this year, to support these frontline positions.

Last spring, my government, in partnership with the federal government, introduced the gang violence reduction strategy. This strategy will provide $11.8 million over the next five years to help address the issue of gang violence in our province by:

- Expanding and improving addictions supports in correctional facilities;
- Launching the community intervention model, a community-based program focusing on intensive outreach and support for high risk youth; and
- Continuing to support policing units that focus on combatting gangs and drugs, including expansion of the successful crime reduction team policing model to Saskatoon and Regina early in the new year.

My government is committed to reducing the number of traffic accidents, injuries, and fatalities by improving traffic safety. More than $9 billion has been invested in highway infrastructure over the past 12 years, repairing and replacing 14,000 kilometres of Saskatchewan highways and 280 bridges.

Next week, the Regina bypass will open, on time and on budget. It is the largest transportation infrastructure project in Saskatchewan history, with 12 interchanges, 40 kilometres of new four-lane highway, 20 kilometres of resurfaced four-lane highway, and 55 kilometres of service roads, all designed to improve the flow of traffic around Regina and reduce the amount of large truck traffic through the city. Above all else, this project is about improving driver safety and reducing the number of serious accidents, particularly at highway intersections that have now been replaced with much safer overpasses.

My government will continue to improve highway safety throughout the province with more passing lanes and a commitment of $100 million over five years to improve safety at highway intersections. While improving highway conditions improves driver safety, the dangers posed by impaired and distracted driving remain a serious concern.

Over the past number of years, my government has introduced several measures to reduce impaired driving rates in Saskatchewan. Saskatchewan children are now learning about the dangers of impaired driving well before they ever get behind the wheel. My government is proud to partner with Mothers Against Drunk Driving Canada by providing $700,000 to bring the interactive mobile classroom “SmartWheels” to Saskatchewan schools. This unique mobile classroom will help educate young people in grades 4 through 6 about the risks of alcohol, drugs, and impaired driving. SmartWheels is expected to visit more than 100 schools and be seen by approximately 9,000 Saskatchewan students over the coming school year.

While there is more work to do, we are seeing results. In our most recent progress report, the number of fatalities caused by impaired driving is down 45 per cent and the number of people injured has fallen by 64 per cent since 2008. But while impaired driving numbers are falling, distracted driving offenses are not. Distracted driving is one of the leading factors in collisions and injuries from automobile crashes in Saskatchewan.

Sandra LaRose of Tyvan and Constable Mike “Hawkeye” Seel of the Regina Police Service join us here today. Sandra’s daughter Kailynn tragically passed away in August 2018 due to distracted driving. Since then, Sandra has shared Kailynn’s story to try to reduce distracted driving. But as Constable Seel’s efforts illustrate all too well, that message has not gotten through to everyone. This year alone, he has written over 1,000 cell phone tickets. I want to thank both of them for being here today and for their commitment to help keep our roads safe. During this session, my government will introduce tougher distracted driving penalties to make driving safer for everyone on Saskatchewan’s streets and highways.

PARKS AND TOURISM

Saskatchewan is a beautiful province that attracts visitors from around the world. Our 36 provincial parks now welcome nearly four million visits a year. My government is committed to ensuring visitors have a great experience at Saskatchewan parks through significant capital investments in campgrounds, boat launches and shower and washroom facilities. Further improvements this year will increase the total provincial investment in parks to over $127 million since 2007.

Saskatchewan continues to attract world class events, like the Tim Hortons NHL Heritage Classic this Saturday at Mosaic Stadium in Regina. Next year, Saskatchewan will play host to the Scotties Tournament of Hearts in Moose Jaw, the Juno Awards in Saskatoon, and the Grey Cup Championship in Regina, and in 2021, Saskatoon will host the Tim Hortons Roar of the Rings Olympic Curling Trials.

INFRASTRUCTURE

A strong and growing province requires significant investment in infrastructure to keep pace with that growth. Over the past 12 years, my government has made a massive investment of $30 billion in Saskatchewan infrastructure – $13 billion through executive government in projects like hospitals, schools, highways, and long-term care facilities, and $17 billion through Crown corporation capital projects.

Today, it is more important than ever to ensure access to fast and reliable wireless communications services throughout Saskatchewan. That is why my government introduced the wireless Saskatchewan initiative. As part of that initiative, SaskTel is investing up to $50 million to further increase coverage in rural Saskatchewan. Work has begun on 15 new cellular sites.

As part of phase two of the wireless Saskatchewan initiative to provide rural communities with enhanced access to reliable cellular and high speed internet services, 103 rural communities will receive a new small cell site by the end of 2020, with over half of these new sites already in service. In recent weeks, my government has partnered with the federal government to make a number of significant infrastructure funding announcements, including:

- The Globe Theatre in Regina;
- The Gordie Howe Bowl in Saskatoon;
- Shakespeare on the Saskatchewan in Saskatoon;
- A new multi-purpose recreational facility in Prince Albert;
- Peter Ballantyne Cree Nation Community Ice Rink in Southend;
- Thunderchild Wellness Centre on Thunderchild First Nation;
- Improved internet service on Whitecap Dakota First Nation;
- Two water and wastewater projects serving nine communities in northern Saskatchewan; and
- 21 water, wastewater, waste management, and road infrastructure projects in towns and rural municipalities throughout Saskatchewan.

The total provincial contribution to these 30 projects is over $85 million. During this session, my government's commitment to building a strong Saskatchewan will continue with a significant investment in infrastructure in the 2020 budget.

STRONG FISCAL MANAGEMENT AND BALANCED BUDGETS

Sound management of Saskatchewan taxpayers' dollars has been and will continue to be the foundation of my government's plan for a strong and growing Saskatchewan. This spring, my government completed its three-year plan to return the provincial budget to balance after a sharp downturn in resource prices left a billion dollar hole in the province's finances.

This past summer, the three major credit rating agencies – Moody's, Standard and Poor's, and DBRS affirmed the province's high credit ratings, which are among the strongest in Canada. In its August 7 affirmation of Saskatchewan's AA credit rating, Standard and Poor's said: "We believe that Saskatchewan's creditworthiness is supported by the province's strong financial management."

There are some who say sound management of taxpayers' dollars means cutting services. It actually improves services by redeploying resources to where they are most needed. For example, my government decided to end the executive air service in 2017 and sell two of the airplanes, saving Saskatchewan taxpayers $1 million per year. A third airplane was provided to Saskatchewan Air Ambulance. The repurposed executive air plane ensures there are always two aircraft available for medical flights, many of which are to northern Saskatchewan. The repurposed aircraft is also available for life-saving trips to support the organ transplant program, making 74 total flights transporting patients or organs since 2017.

LEGISLATION

During this session, my government will implement Clare's Law in cities with municipal police forces. Clare's Law, which was passed last session, allows police to disclose information to individuals who might potentially be at risk of interpersonal violence. Saskatchewan is the first province in Canada to pass this legislation and other provinces are now following our lead.

During this session, my government will introduce a number of pieces of legislation, including:

- A new fisheries act to modernize the legislation and provide greater protection against invasive aquatic species;
- Amendments to The Lobbyists Act, to address recommendations made by the Registrar of Lobbyists in his recent annual reports;
- Legislation for the regulation of vaping and vaping products;
- Amendments to strengthen the enforcement of maintenance orders for child support payments;
- Amendments to The Saskatchewan Employment Act to increase parental leave by eight weeks to ensure that employees who are entitled to the new shared parental employment insurance benefit have job protection while using the new leave benefit; and
- Further amendments to The Saskatchewan Employment Act to extend employment leave to individuals who are running for election to a First Nations band council.

CONCLUSION

Today, as this new legislative session begins, we have the honour and the privilege to meet in this Legislative building that serves as a testament to the incredible growth and prosperity Saskatchewan's first Premier Walter Scott envisioned for this great province and its people. Let us be mindful of this vision for our province, of how far we have come and how there is still much work to be done on behalf of the people we serve. Saskatchewan today is a strong and growing province.

My government is committed to ensuring that strong growth continues, that all Saskatchewan people continue to enjoy the benefits of that growth and that the 2020s are a new decade of growth for Saskatchewan. I now leave you to the business of the session, knowing that you will favourably discharge your duties and responsibilities.

May divine providence continue to bless our province and guide this Assembly in all of its deliberations. God bless Saskatchewan. God bless Canada. God save the Queen.

His Honour then retired from the Chamber.

QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE
(Intention to deliberately mislead the Assembly)

On October 23, 2019, the Member for Regina Rosemont (Mr. Wotherspoon) raised a question of privilege concerning comments made in this Assembly on May 2, 2017 by the Minister of the Economy (Hon. Mr. Harrison) at that time.

The case maintains that the minister provided false information to the Assembly in his response to a question concerning the potential sale of SaskTel by stating that “. . . there have been no formal discussions as to what a transaction may or may not look like.” As evidence to support his case, the member cites the Information and Privacy Commissioner’s Review Report 119-2018, released on August 9, 2019. The report was in response to an applicant’s request to determine whether SaskTel appropriately applied FOIP (The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act) exemptions. It identifies agreements entered into on May 2, 2017 between SaskTel and a third party.

It has been recognized by the parliamentary authorities that if a member misleads the House deliberately, it may be treated as a contempt. At the heart of this case is whether the Member for Regina Rosemont has sufficiently established that the minister knew his statement was incorrect and that he intended to mislead the Assembly. I remind members that it is not the Speaker’s role to determine if a contempt of parliament has occurred. It is the Speaker’s duty to decide if there is prima facie evidence to warrant a debate on the matter and a decision of the Assembly.

Before ruling on the allegation, I want to address the question of whether this case was submitted at the earliest opportunity, in accordance with rule 12(2). The case was first submitted on August 9, 2019, which is the date the commissioner’s report revealed the existence of specific agreements cited as pertinent to the member’s privilege case. Subsequently, the prorogation of the Assembly prevented a ruling on the matter. The earliest opportunity to re-submit the case was before 8:00 a.m. today; therefore, I find the member is in compliance with the notice provisions of the rule.

In his question of privilege, the member states:

“Minister Harrison’s claim that ‘there have been no formal discussions’ cannot be reconciled with the fact that SaskTel entered into nondisclosure and privilege agreements to discuss a potential sale that very same day. It is clear that Minister Harrison’s answer was not consistent with the facts in the Information and Privacy Commissioner’s report.”

In the opinion of the Member from Regina Rosemont, the Mutual Non-Disclosure Agreement and Joint Defense Privileged Agreement identified in the report provide evidence that the statements made by the minister were false.

The commissioner’s report establishes that SaskTel and a third party had agreements and discussions about possible partnerships and a potential transaction. It is not clear that the exchange of information and negotiations referenced in the report were exploratory or a “formal discussion” on the sale of SaskTel, which is what the member asked about in question period on May 2, 2017.

An allegation as serious as contempt requires proof of a very high order. The member did not point to or provide persuasive evidence to prove this was a formal negotiation. The interpretation of those discussions is a matter of perception. The report does not conclusively prove the minister’s comment was false, and certainly does not provide evidence that the minister purposely provided false information with the intent to mislead the Assembly. I find the member’s case has not achieved the threshold of evidence needed for me to find a prima facie case of privilege.

Before concluding this matter, I would like to address the proposed motion in this question of privilege. There have been instances in the past where privilege motions, proposed by both sides, have not conformed to the rules. I would like to clarify at this time, for the record, the intent of rule 12 clause (1)(c). It states:

The member shall provide to the Speaker in writing the following:

- (c) a question of privilege motion, which the member must be ready to propose:
  - i. declaring that a contempt or breach of privilege has been committed, which includes a remedy for the problem; or
  - ii. referring the matter to the Standing Committee on Privileges.

As outlined in this rule, there are two options in a question of privilege motion, declaring a contempt or breach of privilege has occurred with a remedy, or referring the matter to the Standing Committee on Privileges. The motion cannot provide both options. In the future, please ensure that all privilege motions conform to the rules of this Assembly.

STATEMENT BY THE SPEAKER
(Standards of Debate)

On Tuesday, November 26, 2019, the Opposition House Leader (Ms. Sproule) raised a point of order to say the Minister of the Environment (Hon. Mr. Duncan) mischaracterized the position of the opposition on pipelines during question period. The Opposition House Leader said she thought the remark was unparliamentary. The Government House Leader (Hon. Mr. Harrison) gave his opinion on the facts, to which the Opposition House Leader responded with a second point of order. In that point of order, she took exception to the remarks of the Government House Leader and provided a list of instances when the opposition put its support for pipelines on the record. I committed to review the record on the original point of order.

I could only find one instance when the minister referred to pipelines in his responses to the questions put by the Member for Regina Northeast (Mr. Pedersen). He said, “When it comes to an opportunity to support the federal government, Mr. Speaker, on the carbon tax or on certainly issues around pipelines, we know which side they stand on.” The minister did not explicitly assert the opposition’s position on pipelines but certainly the Government House Leader did in his response to the point of order. That takes me to the broader issue of this incident.

In essence, what happened yesterday was the use of a point of order to air a grievance over how public policy positions are depicted in debate. There is no doubt in my mind that this is a very sensitive issue for members on both sides of the Chamber. Yesterday, the situation quickly escalated into mayhem when members on both sides started hurling insults and accusations across the floor. It led to a third point of order about unparliamentary language.

This is not the first time I’ve been asked to rule on this kind of situation. I refer you to my statement of April 23, 2018, which was made in response to a similar incident. This is not a matter that can be resolved by the Speaker. It is a matter for all members to pause and give careful introspection on the standards they want for debate in this chamber. There will always be disputes over the facts of any matter. As I previously stated, it is not unparliamentary to criticize statements made by members as contrary to the facts. This is the raw material of debate and this place is a deliberative body. But I ask you, what standards do you want for this place? Yesterday brought to a head a matter that I think has been festering for some time. I sensed this through the language that both sides have used in question period. Of particular concern is the way you have characterized each other when putting forward the issues of the day. I implore members to reflect on our code of conduct and in particular commitment to have respect for differences and fairness in political dealings.

I will now respond to the point of order raised by the Government Deputy House Leader (Hon. Mr. Merriman). He alleged that the Member from Athabasca (Mr. Belanger) “shouted across for everybody in the Assembly to hear that the Government House Leader was lying.” Upon review, the Member from Athabasca was clearly heard to have used unparliamentary language. The language used by the member has consistently been ruled out of order. I now ask the Member from Athabasca to withdraw the comment and apologize.

(Deferred Ruling)

Yesterday, Tuesday, November 26, 2019 the Opposition House Leader (Ms. Sproule) raised a question of privilege under the provisions of rule 12 of The Rules and Procedures of the Legislative Assembly of Saskatchewan. I received the notice at 2:58 p.m. Upon receipt of this notice, in accordance with the rules, the Government House Leader (Hon. Mr. Harrison) has been informed of the details of the case and the proposed question of privilege.

It is the responsibility of the Speaker to determine if a prima facie case of privilege has been established. Contempt of the Assembly is a serious charge, which requires careful examination of the case and this Assembly's practices and precedents. However, I have not had sufficient time to carefully consider all matters related to this question, so for this reason I shall defer my ruling.

QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE
(Premature disclosure of contents of a bill)

On November 26, 2019, the Opposition House Leader (Ms. Sproule) raised a question of privilege concerning the release of details related to Bill No. 199 — The Opioid Damages and Health Care Costs Recovery Act before its introduction to the Legislative Assembly.

I have deferred my ruling twice to ensure a fulsome and careful review of the practice and precedents from Saskatchewan and other jurisdictions.

In her case, the Opposition House Leader claims that the Minister of Health (Hon. Mr. Reiter) made comments to the media prior to providing information to the opposition. She alleges that the early release of information constitutes a contempt of the Legislative Assembly of Saskatchewan by preventing all members from exercising their duties and responsibilities as Members of the Legislative Assembly.

I would first like to address the precedents presented in the member's question of privilege and then address the much broader issue of an early release of a bill or its contents.

To support her case, the Opposition House Leader cited a case from the House of Commons in Ottawa regarding the premature disclosure of details of Bill C-14. Speaker Regan decided the release of specific details of that bill before its introduction constituted a prima facie question of privilege.

The Opposition House Leader also noted that Speaker Tochor used the Regan ruling on June 2, 2016 to support his decision that the release of embargoed information about the provincial budget constituted a prima facie case of privilege.

I think it is necessary to address these two decisions because they are somewhat pivotal to the Opposition House Leader's case. I will begin with Speaker Tochor's ruling.

In her case, the Opposition House Leader quoted Speaker Tochor's decision not to accept apologies for the budget leak. I remind members that I addressed the subject of apologies on March 14, 2018 when I said:

It is my belief that members come to this place with honourable intentions. When a mistake is made the right thing to do is to apologize. There is no doubt that the consequence of a member's action is an important consideration in determining questions of privilege. There might well be instances when an ample and genuine apology is not sufficient but it is this Speaker's general belief that the willingness of a member to make amends should be an important consideration in deciding cases.

I will now address the broader issues of Speaker Regan and Speaker Tochor's decisions as they relate to the case before us.

Speaker Tochor cited the Bill C-14 case because he believed Saskatchewan's sole precedent on a budget leak did not match the circumstance of the case before him. In Saskatchewan, House of Commons practice is to be considered under the authority of rule 1 only in unprovided situations. In the House of Commons rulings, he found an evolving situation with precedents that seemed to contradict the historical standards for Speaker's rulings on privilege questions concerning budget leaks. Speaker Tochor found House of Commons practice to be out of step with more recent rulings on the premature release of information on bills. In reference to the Bill C-14 case, he said, "It is also my point of view that the leak of budget information is as significant, or possibly even more significant, than the leak of a bill before it is tabled in the Assembly."

It is important to recall that Speaker Tochor's decision was in the context of a budget leak and the lack of a directly relevant Saskatchewan precedent. In consideration of the case at hand, it is worth reviewing the application of rule 1, since that is how Speaker Tochor came to cite the Bill C-14 ruling.

Under rule 1, only when Saskatchewan does not have its own rules or practices do we turn to other jurisdictions. Speaker Brockelbank stated on April 5, 1976, "... rule one applies only if Saskatchewan does not have an applicable rule, precedent or practice."

So, before turning to other jurisdictions, the Speaker should review whether this Legislative Assembly has any relevant precedent. I have done this and have found several rulings relevant to this case. On December 4, 1975; June 2, 1988; April 22, 1991; and on May 31, 1993, questions of privilege were raised when either a bill or its contents were released prior to introduction in the Assembly. Speaker Rolfes summarized Saskatchewan's practice in his ruling on May 13, 1993 when he stated:

While neither the rules nor the precedents require that Bills must be kept confidential until introduced in the Assembly, it is not customary for a bill to be distributed to the public before it is introduced in this Assembly. Notwithstanding that custom, at no time has the advance release of a bill been found to breach any privilege.

In each of these cases, the Speaker ruled it an important parliamentary convention that a minister first release a bill in the Assembly before releasing it to the public or media.

As Speaker Tochor pointed out, it appears that practice has been evolving at the House of Commons in Ottawa. For that reason, I want to turn back to the Bill C-14 case for a moment. Members are well aware that Speakers do not determine questions of privilege. It is up to the Assembly to decide if breaches of privilege and occurrences of contempt have occurred. It is noteworthy that the House of Commons never did determine that a contempt had been committed by the premature release of the details of Bill C-14. The issue was ordered to the Standing Committee on Procedure and House Affairs on April 16, 2016, but a decision was not reported back to the House of Commons.

It is also instructive to review precedent set in other jurisdictions. A jurisdictional survey of questions of privilege across the country does not indicate any case where an Assembly found contempt for the early disclosure of information from a bill, even when a prima facie case had been established. Additionally, Speakers across the country have consistently found that no prima facie case can be established without specific details of a bill being provided to the media. This has been confirmed by the rulings of Speakers in Alberta on November 8, 2016, December 2, 2013, and March 7, 2000; British Columbia on March 23, 2004 and February 23, 1973; Manitoba on May 22, 2018; and Quebec on June 13, 2014, November 14, 2007, and October 25, 2005.

Speakers have demonstrated a common concern for respect to the parliamentary convention of first access to legislative information. This was the basis of Speaker Kowalsky's decision of April 11, 2005, when members of the opposition were denied access to a technical briefing provided to the media on a legislative matter. House of Commons Speaker Regan stated on May 7, 2018, "... it remains incumbent upon those who are responsible for legislative information to respect the primacy of Parliament by respecting the right of the House to first access." In all of the Saskatchewan precedents I cited, while finding no breach of privilege, the Speakers did admonish the government for not respecting the convention that members should be advised of new policies first.

I have pointed out that our own precedents show that at no time has the advance release of a bill been found to breach any privilege. It appears that the needle has moved a little in some jurisdictions but there are no examples of a case proceeding without prima facie evidence confirming the release of very specific and detailed content of a bill.

In the case before us, the minister provided notice of introduction of Bill No. 199 — The Opioid Damages and Health Care Costs Recovery Act on Thursday, November 21, 2019. On Monday, November 25, 2019, he provided general information to the media about the intent of the bill. The Opposition House Leader said the opposition received an embargoed copy of Bill No. 199 at 8:30 a.m. on Tuesday, November 26, 2019 before it was introduced in the Assembly later that day. I have not been provided with evidence that the media was given access to the bill, any content of the bill, or specific details of the bill prior to its provision to the members of the opposition. Consequently, this question of privilege does not equate to the situation Speaker Kowalsky ruled on in connection to access to technical briefings and embargos.

House of Commons Speaker Regan stated on June 8, 2017 and re-emphasized on May 7, 2018:

The right of the House to first access to legislation is one of our oldest conventions. It does and must, however, coexist with the need of governments to consult widely, with the public and stakeholders alike, on issues and policies in the preparation of legislation.

The minister's comments to the media in response to questions about Bill No. 199 speak in very general terms about the objectives of the bill. The minister also expressed an inability to speak further to the legislation prior to its introduction, which demonstrated his intent to adhere to the parliamentary convention of first access.

An allegation as serious as contempt requires a thorough analysis. This has been achieved by scrutinizing our own precedents as well as those nation-wide and by examining the facts of the case. Based on this evidence, I find that members were not impeded in the discharge of their parliamentary duties and that a prima facie case has not been established.

STATEMENT BY THE SPEAKER
(Unparliamentary language)

Yesterday, March 10, 2020, the Government House Leader (Hon. Mr. Harrison) raised two points of order concerning the remarks made by the Member for Regina Rosemont (Mr. Wotherspoon) during debate on Bill No. 194 — The Miscellaneous Municipal Statutes Amendment Act, 2019. The Member is alleged to have used unparliamentary language to which the Opposition House Leader (Ms. Sproule) requested I review the record before making a ruling. I have reviewed the record and will now address each of the comments that aggrieved the Government House Leader.

I will begin with the use of the word hypocritical. The Government House Leader referenced two Speaker's rulings from 1961, when the word was ruled to be unparliamentary. The reference is from Beauchesne's Parliamentary Rules and Forms, 6th Edition, paragraph 489 on page 146. If the Government House Leader had turned to page 148, paragraph 490, he would have found that other forms of the word hypocritical, such as hypocrisy and hypocrites, had been ruled parliamentary. Beauchesne, in fact, states, "No language is, by virtue of any list, acceptable or unacceptable." In pointing this out I want to refer members to a ruling of Speaker Toth, who provided guidance in such matters, when he stated on December 7, 2010:

...that the context and use of the word is key to determining whether or not it is acceptable. One of the acceptability tests is cited in The House of Commons Procedure and Practice, 2nd Edition, at page 614, which is as follows: "Remarks directed specifically at another Member which question that Member's integrity, honesty or character are not in order."

In a ruling dated November 19, 2004, Speaker Kowalsky ruled that the word hypocritical when applied to an individual is not in order. It is clear from yesterday's Hansard on page 6845 that the Member for Regina Rosemont directed his comments more broadly to government policy and not any particular members of the government. For that reason, I find the point of order not well taken in this instance.

The other remark the Government House Leader found offensive was the phrase "filling the pockets of friends and insiders." I have reviewed the record and can confirm the expression was said by the Member for Regina Rosemont. I find the way this expression was used to be more troubling. It was used in a context to insinuate that members of the government had acted in an unethical manner. I want to remind members that it is not acceptable to question each other's integrity, honesty, or character. There are numerous rulings to this effect in the Journals of this Assembly, but I want to point out what Speaker Kowalsky said on June 13, 2003. He said that the words themselves do not always fall into the strict category of unacceptable language but, if they convey an unmistakable impression, then they must be reviewed in the greater context such as whether the intent is to impute bad motives such as illegalities or immorality or being unethical. As he said, there are limits to how far members should be allowed to go.

The comments used by the Member for Regina Rosemont crossed the line. I've had to remind the Member for Regina Rosemont about such provocative language in the past. For that reason, I find the point of order well taken and ask the Member for Regina Rosemont to rise, withdraw the remark, and apologize. Let's try to be better when we debate the issues of the day and not disparage each other with insults or insinuations of impropriety. I now call on the Member for Regina Rosemont.

STATEMENT BY THE SPEAKER
(Priority of Debate)

This morning at 10:51 a.m., the Member from Saskatoon Nutana (Ms. Sproule) provided me with notice to move a priority of debate motion in accordance with rule 28. I immediately notified the Premier (Hon. Mr. Moe) and Leader of the Opposition (Mr. Meili) of this notice.

The priority of debate motion proposed by the Member from Saskatoon Nutana requests that the government introduce legislation to end the lockout between Federated Co-Operatives Limited and Unifor Local 594 and that it impose binding arbitration to settle the labour dispute.

As outlined in rule 28(5), it is my role as Speaker to decide if the matter is proper to be discussed and whether it should have urgent consideration. The rule also states, "The Speaker also shall have regard to the probability of the matter being brought before the Assembly within a reasonable time by other means."

The Member presents the Speaker with a dilemma. The matter is proper to be discussed by this Assembly. But, as we know, the Assembly adopted a sessional order only yesterday, which is very prescriptive about the arrangement of business for the next three weeks. That sessional order, which considerably narrows the opportunity for debate on a motion of this nature, is based on an agreement made by the two House leaders. One day later, the Speaker is asked to overrule, as it were, that agreement and the sessional order to allow a priority of debate motion.

The sessional order has eliminated nearly all the regular means for the opposition to bring the proposed motion to the floor of the Assembly. However, it does provide a solution to the dilemma by providing an option to bring the matter before the Assembly this Friday.

Section 2 of the sessional order states that the order of business on Friday, June 19 shall be in accordance with rule 14(3)(b), which gives priority on the Order Paper to private members' business. The sessional order also altered the rotation for the designation of priority items so that the opposition was given the first choice of business under rule 24(4). Consequently, a notice of motion submitted by the opposition would be ranked first in order of priority on the Order Paper under private members' motions, thus providing an opportunity for the member's motion to be debated at that time.

If the opposition Member wishes to submit a notice of motion by 2:30 p.m. today, the motion could be debated on Friday provided the opposition does not designate another matter already on the Order Paper for priority consideration. Pursuant to rule 24(4), this would ensure that the motion being proposed, which they believe is of urgent public importance, would be considered immediately following the 75-minute debate on Friday. Accordingly, the opposition has the ability to bring this matter forward in a reasonable period of time.

Additionally, at any time and without prior notice, the Member may ask for the Assembly's unanimous consent to move their motion as a matter of urgent and pressing necessity in accordance with rule 61. If the Legislative Assembly deems the matter to be sufficiently urgent to set aside its other business, the matter will be debated immediately. This provides another opportunity for the Member to bring her motion before the Assembly.

It is my determination that the Member does have other means to bring this matter before the Assembly within a reasonable time. Therefore, I deny the application for the matter to proceed as a priority of debate motion.

QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE
(Attempt to influence a ruling of the Speaker)

Today, at 10:56 a.m., I received a letter from the Government House Leader (Hon. Mr. Harrison) in which he raised a question of privilege asserting that the Member from Saskatoon Nutana (Ms. Sproule) was attempting to influence the Speaker's decision on a priority of debate motion request by publicly releasing the letter of that request prior to the Speaker addressing the matter in the Assembly.

I have reviewed the case and will now rule on the case brought forward by the Government House Leader.

The first matter I will address is the release of the priority of debate request to the public via social media yesterday, June 16, 2020. The request was received at my office at 10:51 a.m. It was subsequently put in the public domain at approximately 11:43 a.m., well before the start of the daily sitting on June 16. The case is an internal matter for the consideration of the Speaker, and its public release is highly improper both as a matter of order and as an interference in the Speaker's consideration of the matter.

The Member's public release of this letter is analogous to what is stated on page 265 in the 24th edition of Erskine May, "... it would be a contempt, when Members are acting in a judicial or quasi-judicial capacity... to attempt, by letters, anonymous or other, to influence them in the discharge of their duties."

Erskine May more directly states, "Conduct not amounting to a direct attempt improperly to influence Members in the discharge of their duties but having a tendency to impair their independence in the future performance of their duty may be treated as a contempt." It is my conclusion that the release of the letter into the public domain was meant to pressure the Speaker into making a decision favourable to the Member.

Moreover, the Member's letter was phrased in such a way as to imply that part of the Speaker's decision is based on the merit of a public policy decision. The Member is well aware that the Speaker's view of a public policy matter is irrelevant and is never a factor in a decision. The Member is fully aware that the Speaker bases decisions on the provisions of the rule and not whether he shares the public policy view of the Member. This, in conjunction with the release of the letter to the public, injected the Speaker into a public policy debate which is inappropriate.

I find that the actions of the Opposition House Leader amounted to an attempt to influence, by public pressure, the Speaker's decision to rule on the priority of debate request. The actions also amounted to an attempt to improperly influence the Speaker in making a decision based on the importance of the public policy issue rather than the terms of the standing order.

For these reasons I find that the Government House Leader has established a prima facie case for the matter to be considered as a question of privilege by the Assembly.

Moved by the Hon. Mr. Harrison:

That the actions of the Member for Saskatoon Nutana on June 16, 2020 constitutes a breach of privilege of the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly of Saskatchewan by attempting to influence a ruling of the Speaker; and further

That the Member for Saskatoon Nutana remove all offending social media posts and apologize to the Speaker and Assembly for her actions.

A debate arising and the question being put, it was agreed to.

The Member from Saskatoon Nutana apologized and agreed to remove the social media posts.

On motion of the Hon. Mr. Harrison:

Ordered, That this Assembly do now adjourn.
